5. In a conversation with J.R. Blandford, General Counsel, House Military Affairs Committee, he pointed out the fact that Subcommittee #3 was charged with keeping itself closely informed on the plans and operations of CIA, and that members of the Subcommittee felt that they would like to talk with the Director. He stated that they would like to come down to CIA and that it might be politic to invite them to lunch, followed by a round table discussion with the Director. He stated further that it might be a good idea if the Director took the initiative and wrote a letter to the Chairman, inviting him and Mr. Vinson, the ranking minority member, and the members of the Subcommittee for a visit.
